Connecting the health-care community in Northern Ontario

The Northern Ontario Medical Journal was launched at the Inaugural MEDNorth Conference and Tradeshow on April 20, 2007. The Journal is a natural extension of the evolving health-care community in Northern Ontario and focuses on the people, places, institutions and research in the North. It is a morale booster, an information portal, and a means of bringing the northern region together through stories of innovation, success, challenges and solutions. The Journal is published quarterly – March, June, September and December – and distributed across the North and throughout Ontario.
